

On June 1, 2017 Pulse Secure announced the signing of a definitive agreement to acquire Brocade's Virtual Application Delivery Controller (vADC) business, expanding the Pulse Secure vision on delivering Secure Access for people, devices, things, and services. The transaction is expected to close in late June to mid-July 2017, subject to customary closing conditions. This acquisition adds significant new capabilities to the Pulse Secure Access Platform, delivering a complete end-to-end solution that reduces cost and complexity, increases security, and delights users – opening many more opportunities for new and existing customers.

As a valued Brocade vADC partner, we would like to introduce and welcome you to the Pulse Secure Connect Now Partner Program. The Connect Now Partner Program was built on the cornerstones of Simplicity, Competency and Profitability. Our current Connect Now Partners benefit from a generous Deal Registration program, Proposal-based MDF program, education and training programs, hands-on support and so much more. Over the next 60 days we will share further details of the program, how to sign up and what working with Pulse Secure will mean for you and your customers. In the meantime, it's "business as usual."
